Library Site Still Questioned

Controversy is still being raised over the decision of the former City Council over the location of the proposed new library for the City of Seaside.

The City Council, at their Thursday meeting, July 19, approved authorization to proceed on working drawings for the new library. The proposed location for the library is in the City Hall building complex, located on Harcourt Avenue.

Opposition to this location has been voiced by City Councilman Steve Ross, 4th District Supervisor Roger Poyner, and Mrs. Linda Bassett.

Councilman Ross stated the location for the proposed library should be centrally located near the majority of the schools, making it convienient for the children to walk to this location.

"It is my contention," Councilman Ross stated, "that the new Library should be located East of Fremont Street."

Voicing his displeasure with the previous City Council members who were in favor of the library

MONTEREY COUNTY FREE LIBRARY

In view of all the controversy ranging over the location of the proposed new library Mayor B. J. Dolan, Seaside, was contacted who justified the action of the City Council in ordering the drawing up of plans for the new library.

Mayor Dolan reported: "Our present library is totally inadequate, there is no one that would dispute that," he said. "The proposed library site, in fact, the library we will have, if we have the funding by the first of November, will go between the present City Hall and the Department of Motor Vehicles building on that two acre site that is appraised at some $86,000.

"Now the grant we will be applying for is an 80/20 grant. In other words, EDA will furnish 80% of the funds, and the city will have to come up with the other 20%. These are construction funds we are talking about.

"However, already to be included in that 20% will be the $23,000 we expended or will have expended cn the next six weeks for the final plans. That's the preliminary plans for $8,350 and the balance will be some $11,500 plus some additional fees for inspection after construction.

"Relative to location, in my opinion if we could place the library across from Martin Luther King (Junior High School), that would be the most desirable spot. Perhaps any place east of Fremont (Street) in the residential area, would be far more desirable than the location at City Hall. But we must equate the common sense decision here as to whether or not we want to accept the grant. We have been notified that we should be

Bank Gets New Officer

Gary Frank Young's assignment as loan officer at Bank of America's Seaside office was announced recently by Vice President and Manager Robert Dobson.

A native of Bakersfield, Young 29, joined the bank there in 1964. He continued his studies at Bakersfield Junior College and Fresno City College while working part-time for the bank. In 1969, Young enrolled as a full-time student at Fresno State University. After receiving his bachelor's degree in 1971, Young returned to the bank's Fresno main office. He held various positions in the Fresno area prior to his transfer to Seaside.

Young is married to the former Donna Nelson of Bakersfield.

Now Is Time To Appeal Property Tax Assessments

The time is at hand for appeals to be filed by property owners who plan to contest the values placed on their properties by the county assessor, State Board of Equalization Member George R. Reilly advised recently.

In Los Angeles County, the time during which an appeal may be filled is from July 16 until September 17. For residents of Alameda, Orange, Sacramento, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara Counties, the filing period is from July 2

In all other counties, appeals must be filed between July 2 and August 27. Appeals received after the final filing dates cannot be considered.

If a property owner does not receive notice of the assessed value of his property by July 1, or shortly thereafter, he may obtain the information by visiting the assessor's or county aiditor's office, where the roll is kept. Usually the assessor's office will supply the figures by phone or mail if the owner can identify his property accurately - preferably by parcel number.

A property owner can contest the assessor's full value estimate if he thinks it is excessive. Except in the case of land in the "openspace" program, "full value" means the best price a willing and knowledgeable seller could obtain for the property from a willing and knowledgeable buyer. To contest the assessor's full value, the property owner should be prepared with information on the market values of comparable properties in the neighborhood.

Reilly stressed that an appellant cannot expect relief merely because the current assessed value is considerably higher than last year's. The current assessed value must be excessive relative to what the property was worth on March 1, 1973.

The property owner may first wish to contact the assessor's office and request an explanation of the appraised value of the property. If the explanation does not resolve the issue, the taxpayer then should appeal to the assessment appeals board if the county has created one or more of these boards, or to the board of supervisors sitting as a county board of equalization.

The hearing before such a board is informal, and the taxpayer need not have legal counsel. As a rule, the burden of proof is on the taxpayer.

Forms on which to file appeals may be obtained from the clerk of the county board of supervisors or from the assessor's office.

Anderson Bill Could Save Taxpayers Money

Washington, D.C., July 19, 1973--State and local California taxpayers could save up to $486 million a year in payments to welfare recipients under a proposal offered by Congressman Glenn Anderson (D, Calif.) to help states and localities force fathers who abandon their families to support their dependents.

"In California, an estimated 85 percent of the families on welfare were abandoned by the father, thus causing a burden for society," Anderson said.

In January 1973, 435,254 California families were collecting welfare payments totaling over $1 billion annually.

"The taxpayer has had to accept the responsibility for many of these families which should be fupported by the father," he continued.

Anderson's proposal would make it a Federal crime for a father to move or travel out of state to avoid compliance with court-ordered payments of support for his dependents.

"This would provide the District Attorney with a long-needed enforcement tool to recover support payments from absent fathers who are not contributing to the support of their children," the former Lieutenant Governor stated.

In Los Angeles, over 181,000 families receive $40.4 million in welfare payments monthly.

Anderson estimates that his proposal could reduce this sum significantly--up to $17 million a month in Los Angeles--if the "fugitive fathers" were located and forced to accept their legal responsibilities.

"This state has over a million children on welfare, most of whom are on the rolls because the father has neglected his moral and legal obligation to support his family," he continued.

"The freedom to travel

YAFA Receives $3,000 ACTION Grant

Young Adults for Action of Seaside, has received a $3,000 grant to conduct an experimental study on the role of voluntarism in America in the 1970's.

Announcement of the grant was made in Washington by Mike Balzano, director of ACTION, the federal agency which administers the Peace Corps, VISTA and other volunteer programs.

YAFA is one of five organizations--representing various ethnic communities--participating in the three-month study. The others are from Pittsburgh, Pa.; Brooklyn, N.Y.; Jersey City, N.J. and Chicago, Ill.

Ten representatives of the groups went to Washington for an orientation and training session July 10-11. They met with Director Balzano and heads of the agency's various programs before returning to their individual communities.

The representatives: Donnie Taylor, Larry Mosley, Young Adults for Action Inc., Seaside; Jim Tallon, Dennis Lauria, Resurrection Church, Pittsburgh; David Edelstein, Milton Wein, Jewish Orthodox Youth, Brooklyn; George Putydewycz, Roman Bakalec, Ukrainian National Association, Jersey City; and Dominic Pacyga, John S. Kociolko, Polish American Congress Charitable Foundation, Chicago.

At the request of Director Balzano, the representatives will evaluate their own ethnic communities in therms of recruiting local manpower and gaining support for locally-operated volunteer

3 Schools Given Tax Exemption

The Internal Revenue Service has issued rulings recognizing the rax exemp status of three Northern California schools that have announced racially non-discriminatory policies in admission of students to all activities of the schools, according to Mr. Cornelius J. Coleman, Acting District Director of the Internal Revenue Service for Northern California. The schools granted tax exempt status are as follows:

The De Young Museum Art School, Legion of Honor, Lincoln Park, San Francisco, California 94121; The Berkeley Institute for Advanced Inquiry, 3810 Barrett Street, El Cerrito, California 94530; Monterey College of Law, Route 1, Box 130, Carmel, California 93921.

The rullings have been issued under the statement of position announced by the IRS on July 10,1970, concerning the tax exempt status of private schools. In this statement the IRS concluded it could no longer legally justify recognizing the exempt status of private schools

ARMY RECRUITER

Hi everybody.

The Aerospace industry is one of the largest and most rapidly changing industries in the country. Some 1.25 million people were employed in the manufacture of aircraft, missile and spacecraft last year. One of the best ways to enter the industry is through TODAY'S ARMY. The strong similarity among aircraft, missiles and spacecraft is very helpful in switching your career experience in TODAY'S ARMY to a civilian position in aerospace.

One Army job in Aerospace is that of a Hawk Missile Crewman. Crewmen assist in missile assembly and checkout, in organizational maintenance, and in command and control of the firing element of the missile battery. Procedures for disarming are taught, as well as emplacement of launchers and associated equipment and how to assist in planning and organizing required defenses of security areas. In effect, a young soldier is actually pre-trained for the Aerospace industry.

TODAY'S ARMY also provides him with a starting salary of $307.20 a month to start, room and board, complete medical and dental care and 30 days paid vacation annually. In the Aerospace industry there is a choice of many finished products on which to be working. And the finished products can use a variety of different types of engines, electronic systems and other components. Missile engines are jet or rocket. Spacecraft are rocket powered because rockets are the most powerful type of engine and can operate in airless space. Missiles and spacecraft vary greatly in the purpose for which they are made, and in their size and capabilities. Missiles are produced primarily for military use and generally carry powerful warheads. Some travel only a few miles and are intended for such purposes as the support of ground troops and defense against low flying aircraft. Others, such as the Atlas, Titan and Minuteman have intercontinental range of 7,000 miles or more.

Aerospace plants where most of the people responsible for the manufacture of these missiles are employed, range from the large factories of major manufacturers, each with thousands of employees, to the shops of small subcontractors and suppliers that employ only a few. The Aerospace industry offers young people a promising future. TODAY'S ARMY is anxious to open the door for them.

If you would like TODAY'S ARMY to open the doors for you into a career field of your choice, please contact us at 431-Webster St., Monterey, or call 372-4742/372-0553.

Vets Can Get Advance GI Bill Payments

Veterans can receive an advance payment of their education benefits at the time they register for classes due to a recently passed public law effective August 1.

To accomodate the veterans at Monterey Peninsula College, the Veterans Affairs Office (VAO) has prepared a fact sheet and application form. "The advance payment is available only on request," said George Newell, VAO director and counselor.

The application form can be filled out and returned to MPC, and the VAO will process other paper work through the Veterans Administration (VA). However, the application must be returned by August 1. A veteran can also apply directly through the VA by August 10. These dates should be met in order to guarantee payment at the time of registration because VA needs 30 days to process the checks, said Newell.

If payment is requested through VA, the request must be listed in the "Remarks" section of the applicable VA form. Newell suggested that since the VAO application is more simplified and the office is set up to handle the situation, veterans may find it preferable to use the office.

The advance payment, for which a person must enroll in at least six units to qualify, includes the partial first month and the entire following month's payment. The check will be received by the veteran after he registers at the school.

The VAO application form requires only the address, VA file number, number of units to be taken, major, type of student (new or returning) and signature. Anyone attending MPC for the first time is considered a "new" student and those who have previously attended MPC are "returning" students.

The single difficulty Newell anticipates is distributing checks to evening students who are mail-in registrants. The director said that he had no idea when the checks will arrive at MPC and does not yet have a feasible means of notification.

G.I. Bill payments begin at $220 for unmarried veterans enrolled in at least 12 units. The pay schedule provides $110 for those with six to eight units and $165 for nine to 11 units. The veteran must have served 181 days continuous active duty and have received other than a dishonorable discharge.

Eligibility for the benefits ends eight years from the date of the veteran's final release from active duty. Veterans released before June 1, 1966, will lose eligibility May 31, 1974, said Newell.

Although the advance payment is received at the school, subsequent payments will be mailed to the veteran's home address. Also, Newell said, "the checks will not be held at the VAO longer than 30 days."

The MPC Veterans Affairs Office is designed to assist the veteran in filling out paperwork and act as a liaison with the Veterans Administration.

For additional information, call Newell at the VAO, 375-9821, ext. 301.

Larson Takes Command

Major Kermit E. Larson assumed command of the 155th Aviation Company (Attack Helicopter), the Combat Developments Experimentation Command's (CDEC) aviation support unit, during ceremonies held recently at Fritsche Army Air Field.

Major Larson succeeds Major William E. Whitworth, who commanded the unit since September 1971 and has now been assigned as a project officer with CDEC's Deputy Chief of Staff- Instrumentation section.

While under Maj. Whitworth's command, the aviation unit achieved an enviable safety and efficiency record and was honored as the CDEC "Company of the Year" in 1972.

Major Larson comes to CDEC from Hawaii where he was assigned with the Office of the Inspector General, U.S. Army Support Command. Prior to that, he commanded F Troop, 4th Cavalry in Vietnam.

The change of command ceremony was marked by the appearance of the 28th Army Band and a fly-over by nine of the company's aircraft.

OchsDepartsCDEC-- Commander Named

In colorful ceremonies recently at Fort Ord, a farewell review was conducted for Brigadier General Ray Ochs of the US Army Combat Developments Experimentation Command (CDEC).

During his two and one half years as commanding general, General Ochs has guided CDEC through a series of important experiments that will help determine how the Army of the future should best fight, be equipped and organized. Of particular importance has been the series of ongoing Army aircraft evaluations conducted at CDEC's field laboragory at Hunter Liggett Military Reservation in Southern Monterey County.

Ochs who is slated for promotion to Major General, has been selected to head the Department of the Army Operations Test and Evaluation Agency at Fort Belvoir, Virginia.

Brigadier General Joseph B. Starker has been selected as CDEC's new commanding general. General Starker will come to CDEC from Project MASSTER (Modern Army Selected Systems Test, Evaluation and Review), Fort Hood, Texas.

Army Commends

Margaret Gabriel, a civilian employee with Army Combat Developments Experimentation Command at Fort Ord, has been presented with the Department of Army official commendation for her outstanding performance of duty.

Mrs. Gabriel is the Secretary for Chief Services Division, of CDEC. Her efficiency in handling this highly complex job was lauded throughout nine months of working on her job.

Mrs. Gabriel, a graduate of Monterey Peninsula College, resides with her husband, Daniel, at 1365 Castroville Blvd, Prunedale.

Department Of Corrections Drive For Minority Workers Is Continuing Success

A largely unheralded drive by the State Department of Crrrections to recruit minority employees continues to pay off, State Health and Welfare Secretary Earl Brian reported recently.

During the past four years, the department has added some 600 persons of minority races to the payroll.

"The corrections agency recognized its need for a higher proportion of non-white staff to relate more effectively to a prison population which is about half minorities," Brian said.

A special hiring effort started in 1969. The drive included the appointment of minority recruitment specialists, revisions in civil service testing, and assistance from various public and private agencies serving the minority community.

Today there are 1,272 minority workers in the department, as compared to only 673 in mid-1968. The current total represents 17 percent of the department's 7,476-employee work forces.

"By a solid performance record extending over four years, the corrections department has certainly demonstrated a firm dedication to equal opportunity in employment.

"More important, the entire departmental program has benefited because of the insight and special experience which minority employees bring to the job," Brian said.

Currently, the department employs 607 Blacks, 500 Mexican-Americans, 84 Asians, and 81 persons from other racial and ethnic minorities. The male inmate population in California prisons is 49.8 percent white, 32 percent black, 16.7 percent Mexican-American, and 1.5 percent other races and ethnic groups.

Promoted To Loan VP

Jerome Lucido, well known Monterey banker, has been promoted to assistant vice president-loans at Bank of America's Monterey office it was announced recently by Lloyd Mayland, vice president and manager.

Lucido has been head of the Timeplan lending department at the office since 1968. Prior to that he held a similar position in the bank's Seaside office.

In 1971 he completed a special course at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, on a grant from the Giannini Foundation.

A native of Italy and a resident of the Monterey Peninsula for the past 27 years, he joined the bank in 1951 and has also held responsible positions in Pacific Grove and the Salinas area.

He is past president of the Sons of Italy and past advisor for Junior Achievement Inc.

Lucido and his wife, Dora, are parents of four children. They reside in Monterey.

Petersdorf Takes San Ramon Post

Allen J. Petersdorf, superintendent of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District since 1970, announced recently that he has accepted the job of superintendent of the San Ramon Valley Unified School District as of August 1.

The superintendent said district trustees agreed to release him from the remaining three years of his current four-year contract in a specially-

Trustees of the San Ramon district met in Danville and took action to hire Petersdorf after they were notified by telephone that he had been released by the Monterey board.

The Monterey board announced that Associate Supt. Dr. James C. Harrison, 43, will serve as acting superintendent starting August 1 and until a decision is made regarding a permanent replacement for Petersdorf. Board President Lonnie Ayers was out of the state and could not be present at Tuesday's special meeting. Other board members chose to wait until a full board would be present to decide on finding a permanent replacement for the superintendent.

Petersdorf will officially remain in the Monterey district until July 31, he said, although he plans to spend several "vacation" days getting acquainted with the staff at the San Ramon district headquarters in Danville, Contra Costa County.

The superintendent was given a four-year contract in the new district and will begin with an annual slary of $32,000 -- the same amount he was currently making in Monterey.

The San Ramon Valley district encompasses the communities of Danville, San Ramon and Alamo and expects to enroll about 13,000 students in September, compared to the 19,000 or so students in Monterey Peninsula schools. But Petersdorf called the San Ramon area "one of the fastest growing districts in California," pointing out that school officials there expect a growth rate of from 1,000 to 1,500 students a year for at least several years.

Petersdorf expressed regrets at leaving the Monterey Peninsula, but balled the new position "a positive aituation, in that the district is growing and has great potential." He added that his two oldest children live in the area, as well as many friends made while he worked in the Castrol Valley and Hayward school systems, prior to accepting the Monterey job.

District Organized

Over the weekend of June 30 - July 1, a founding meeting of the Northern California District of Pop Warner football was held in Ukiah, bringing together representatives of Pop Warner leagues from as far south as the Monterey Bay area to as far north as Oregon border. The result was the founding of a new Pop Warner district with a board of directors consisting of one representative of each chartered league.

Elected to serve office until June, 1974 were: Commissioner Les Rose, Hollister; Assistant Commissioner Danny Allen, Auburn; Treasurer Vern Hotz, Danville; Secretaries Shirley Coley and Joan Staggs, Vallejo and Scheduling Director John Richina of Alameda. The immediate purposes of the federation are the scheduling of inter-league games and representation of the district in regional and national meetings of Pop Warner Junior League Football.

Mmembership in the federation is free and is automatically extended to all leagues chartered by Pop Warner Headquarters in Philadeophia, Pennsylvania. A representative from the national office was present at the founding session as an invited guest of the federation. The actual area covered by the district is that part of California north of San Luis Obispo, Kern and San Bernardino counties. In 1972, this area fielded over 200 Pop Warner tackle football teams. Non-chartered leagues interested in joining Pop Warner are encouraged to contact Commissioner Les Rose at 2111 Fairview Road, Hollister, Calif. 95023.

Monterey Peninsula Seaside — After Dark —

By Tom Nash

Friday was a big day in Seaside, it was the day of the departure of lovely JoAnn Ford, "Miss Black Teenage California" for New York where she will be competing for the title of "Miss Black Teenage America." Accompanied by her chaperon, Betty Mann, former writer for the Seaside POST, they departed at 10:45 a.m. via United Airlines.

On hand to wish them Good Speed were representatives from the City, County and State. Among those were: Mayor B.J. Dolan, Councilman Steve Ross, Cleve Williams, representative from the Parks and Recreation; Miss. Betty Sapp, Cotillion League; Mrs. Ira Lively, Seaside Police Department; Joe Walton, Department of Motor Vehicles; lovely Marsheila Ann Devan, "Miss Black Teenage Monterey;" and some 100 others, including Detective John Barnes, Seaside Police, whose sole responsibility for the day was to "keep his eye on me."

Justifiably so, for I was there trying to "catch." And anytime you see me with anyone over twenty-two, they are related to me, and there were plenty of lovely ladies there.

I kept dodging in and out of the crowd trying to shake my "tail," but to no avail, for each time I thought I had lost him, Detective Barnes would casually tap me on the shoulder and casually remind me that the long "arm of the law" was just carefully observing me.

I couldn't understand it. How he had found out about my prowess so soon, when I had been in Seaside such a short period of time, was a mystery, until I thought about who would have this knowledge. Then it struck me. Clint Porter was the informant. He is like a broken refrigerator, he can't keep anything. Boy, with friends like him, I need no enemies.

Finally, in desperation, I suggested we find a coffee shop, thinking if I could get Detective Barnes in deep conversation, with his lips wrapped around a cup of hot coffee, maybe I could slip away and "catch." It didn't work. When we sat down, he casually produced his handcuffs and handcuffed me to the chair.

Among the Coffee recipients were Joe Walton, Cleve Williams and Mrs. Lively. So there I was, trapped between two police members. How unlucky could any person be.

Lovely JoAnn Ford made her tearful departure, after speeches, and fond farewells, and I envied the pilot who was to carry her all the way to New York, until I thought of a way in which I might talk the publisher, Tom Berkley, into permitting me to cover the Miss Black Teenage America Pageant. This thought was very short lived, for I know in advance what the Publisher would say, after he had finished having at least two epileptic fits, and I wouldn't even need a telephone to hear his response from Oakland.

I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. and Mrs. George Bagsby, the owner of the Fireside Club, and found out that George is the nephew of Alameda County Superior Court Judge Lionel Wilson, a long time friend of mine.

I had heard that one of my favorite sides was on the Record Player in the Club, and I went there to hear it. (Gene Ammons version of "My Way.") Armed with 25¢ in hand, I charged into the Fireside, and low and behold, George had just about disassembled the jukebox, with a monkey wrench. It wouldn't work after finished with it. When he finally got it playing, one of the patrons put his quarter in and punched numbers 206, 106 and 159. The jukebox made a loud grunt and smoke poured from all directions. So if you want a jukebox never to work, just let "George Do It."

Finally, I was relieved when the band came in. Appearing were the Odessy Band featuring Edward War, bass guitar; Gerald Gardiner, flugal horn and trumpet; Tyrone Jackson, lead guitar & vocalist; George Montalvo, flugal horn & trumpet; Kenneth Lips, trombone; J.Z. "Jesus" Lagmay, Saxophones; Steve Jacobs, Electric Piano; Jack Chapman, Congos, and Robert Anderson, drummer.

I was delighted to meet and chat with Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Frazier, who agreed with me that the Fireside would be far better off without the services of George on the jukebox, or "Bill" Connors behind the Bar.

Since being in Seaside, I have met many interesting people. The most interesting group that warrants honorable mention are the members of YAFA (Young Adults For Action). This group is on their stick. They are working with the young in a drug prevention program, and I have learned that they are about to kick-off an education program for adults so that the parents can recognize dangerous drugs in possession of their kids. In addition to this they are about to start three football teams training. This warrants our weekly honor. These two teams will start fall practice on August 6. They are accomplishing this without any assistance from the United Fund. I wonder why? If any organization needs support they most certainly do.

ATTENTION, PLEASE!

Attention Lovers - Music lovers to be precise! Jimmie McDonald, renowned tenor soloist with the Kathryn Kuhlman Ministry, comes to the Monterey Peninsula, July 30. Traveling with him is a 22 voice teen choir, trained by Mr. McDonald, called "A Sound in Ebony."

The Rev. James A. McDonald is an ordained Minister and makes his home on the west coast. He has traveled around the world, ministering in 42 countries on 5 continents, including Soviet Russia and Vietnam.

Jimmie McDonald and "A Sound in Ebony," will be appearing July 30, at St. Francis Xavier Church, LaSalle & Harding, Seaside, at 7:30 p.m. The concert is being sponsored by The First Assembly of God of Pacific Grove. The public is cordially invited. This group of "Teen Agers" is another outstanding example of why we can take pride in our young people. A suggestion: Plan to arrive early at St. Francis Xavier as a large turnout from the entire Monterey Peninsula is anticipated.

Del Monte Heights Residents: The pleas to conserve water has been observed by the majority. However, our municipally-owned water system is still unable to provide an adequate reserve to fulfill peak demand requirements in the event of a hot weather period coupled with excessive watering of gardens, lawns, schoolgrounds, and parks.

Scheduled watering periods have been reduced to 2 hours a day, three times each week at Martin Luther King Jr. High and Manzanita Schools; the same schedule is also in effect at City-owned parks.

It has been observed, however, that some residents turn on sprinkling systems early in the morning, prior to their departure for work. The sprinklers operate all day and are turned off only after people return home after work. This practice is not only expensive, but very wasteful of our water supply in Del Monte Heights.

Again, we urge all of you to cooperate in conserving water. Thank you.

As I See It

BY MEL VERCOE

Ten Thousand people dying every day from malnutrition-caused illnesses (New York Times report). This is not just in the United States, but world wide. This adds up to 3,500,000 people per year. One out of every three persons on the earth today is suffering from malnutrition. Quite a few of them are in the United States. Some of them could help it but don't care. Some of them are humgry but can't do anything about it.

Now, if some sharp inventor will just come up with an idea, some kind of an invention that would feed hungry people and still make tremendous profits for our military-industrial complex, then we would not have to hide statistics like that under the rug, at least not in the United States.

But such an invention may be just a dream, like getting a lot of power out of a mess of gears hooked up to produce perpetual motion, and the hunger goes on, just as racial bigotry goes on in spite of fancy legislation to the contrary. The Christians go on killing each other in Ireland. The Arabs and the Jews keep our arms business booming in the Middle East. Disgruntled dictators in Africa wipe out whole populations to satisfy personal whims. The Chinese and Russians and the Japanese and the Americans will soon be choosing up sides for the next global war.

And for what? If mankind can't figure out some better way to thank his Creator for the privilege of loving on this planet, then I expect some of our religious prophets may turn out to be right - that there will be a "doomsday," and the question aries, "should we take out some insurance and try to survive the 'doomsday,' or just admit that we, as a species, pretty much asked for what we'll get, and accept it quietly?"

Perhaps the old saying "God helps those who help themselves" was not intended as encouragement for crooked politicians and petty thieves, but had a broader field in mind, "that those who appreciate this earth and this life enough to respect them and perserve them" would get some help from time to time.

The states multi-million dollar surplus seems to pose a qroblem for California lawmakers. We have a simple solution which would not only decrease the surplus, but also would return these surpluses back to the people who paid them plus assist hard pressed local governments to meet their commitments to their people.

Recently the legislature enacted into law a bill which raised the sales tax to 6¢. Admittedly, there really isn't a need for this extra taxation, and the Governor, in a squabble with certain legislative hard-heads, vetoed a bill which would postpone the increase until next year. Reading between the lines, one can assume that a 1/2 cent increase would be adequate.

Taking this into consideration, it would seem quite appropriate for the state to retain only half of this increase, and return the other half to the people. The following proposal seems to be an excellent remedy for the states quandary, give local jurisdictions some help, and ALLOW FOR ORDERLY DEVELOPMENT BY LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

All of the sales tax should be collected by the State and returned to the cities and counties based on an aggreeable formula such as population. Not all of it, but 25%, or 1 & 1/2 cents. This would do what?

In addition to giving back to the taxpayers some of their taxes, this concept would help to decrease the proliferation of huge shopping centers which continuously receive city fathers' blessings because of theALMIGHTY SALES TAX DOLLAR REVENUES. Many cities' general plans are shot full of holes when developers present plans for shopping centers in an area which originally was not zoned commercially. The competition between cities for this additional source of revenue is so fierce that good planning and common sense is thrown to the four winds.

But if the state preempts the sales tax collection field, and returns the revenues as outlined above, it wouldn't make any difference where the sales tax originated. Rayher than return the sales tax recipts to the jurisdiction of origin, it would be much more logical to divide the entire sales tax receipts between all of the cities and counties equitably.

Give the communities a chance to plan their cities properly. Return the sales taxes to the people who spend them, regardless in which city these may have been spent, ultimately providing for properly planned growth, equitable distribution of revenues to the people who pay them and eliminate a budget surplus in state government which presently doesn't help anybody except perhaps some personal egoes.

Congratulations to Thomas Nash on his assumptions of the duties of manager/editor of the Seaside Post News-Sentinel. We are fortunate to have a man of Mr. Nash's experience and sensitivity to take the helm of this paper at this time. I am pleased to learn that Clint Porter is on the mend from his recent eye operation and will be resuming duties in advertising as soon as his doctors give him the green light. Congratulations, too, to the new members of the staff, Rosalie DiMaggio and Patricia Magee Rogers.

The Board of Supervisors has approved, tentatively, the 1973-74 County Budget. The Board of Supervisors have agreed to allocate $500,000.00 of revenue sharing funds toward the relocation of the Welfare Department and some of the facilities and services of the Health Department from the "Hill" location at 1200 Aguajito Road to Seaside. I have mentioned this project in the past, but only now can I state that the project is really going to get underway. The location of the building is presently under study by the City of Seaside and the County of Monterey. I think it safe to say that it will be somewhere in the upper Broadway area of Seaside. The Infant Daycare Center in Seaside has been allocated a "seed money" grant of $20,000.00 from the County Revenue Sharing Fund. This grant will enable the Center to continue operating for this year and, hopefully, for many years in the future. Nevertheless, Mrs. Vaughn, the Center's capable director, says that volunteers are needed to assist with the thirty children who are under three years of age. Please call Mrs. Vaughn at 394-1744.

Congressman Bill Scherle from Iowa reports regarding Presidential Pardon:

"An Army deserter wrote the President from Canada that he had seen the light and repented. At a certain hour, he said, he would appear on the White House grounds ready for military service again. Identified by clothes he had said he would be wearing, he was arrested and detained. The President himself decided the case: the deserter should be returned to his regiment without penalty, except that when his term of enlistment expired, he should serve in prison the number of days he was absent without leave. The President was Abraham Lincoln."

OFFICER Nicky Albert

Nicky Albert was born and raised on the Monterey Peninsula where he attended and graduated from Monterey High School. After completing high school, he went on to graduate from Monterey Peninsula College majoring in Police Science. Upon graduation from MPC in 1970, Nicky transferred to Sacramento State University where he studied Criminal Justice and graduated in 1972.

During the time he was attending MPC, he met and married Patricia Ann Harwood of Wyoming. Apart from being a student, Nicky worked for the Monterey Unified School District and during the summers he was employed by the Department of Interior at Yellowstone National Park.

Wanting a career in law enforcement, Nicky came to work for Seaside Police Department in October of 1972. Since that time he has been working as a patrolman. Even though Nicky has an extensive educational background in law enforcement, he attended and graduated from The Central Coast Counties Police Academy located at Gavilan College in Gilroy. Nicky has obtained the Basic Certificate from the State of California Department of Justice's Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training, which each peace officer must have.

In talking with Nicky Albert, he stated that his immediate goal is to advance within this department as far as his capabilities allow. He has found police work to be far more rewarding than he first believed. Nicky's interest in law enforcement began in an Introduction to Law Enforcement class at MPC. Nicky stated "after I came to work for Seaside, I have found that this department is the most progressive and advanced department of any that I have looked into in the central Calif. The reputation of Seaside Police Department is excellant among the Police Educational programs throughout the state. This job has delivered a great satisfaction of knowing that I'm helping other people, and the results of my efforts as a police officer are very real and can be seen by me every day." Nicky states, that the usefulness of his working life can best be broughtout by working in the field of law enforcement.

Bob Wood Reports

The prospect of a gasoline shortage is frightening to all of us. Amid the conflicting claims of blame, a few facts are becoming clear.

The gasoline shortage indeed is a reality in certain parts of California. Strict rationing has been imposed in Kings Canyon and Sequoia National Parks, and stations in the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas have run short of gas, and I'm sure everyone of us realize that Monterey County is no exception. I'm sure most of us have had the experience of driving all over town on Sunday trying to find a gas station that might be open.

Following a survey of current available fuel supplies, the California State Automobile Association is advising motorists to avoid lengthy night trips and to keep fuel tanks full, particularly when leaving major highways.

Causes of the gasoline shortage involve the basic elements of supply and demand. Some statistical experts tell us environmental constraints on oil drilling and refinery construction tend to depress the supply of gasoline, adding that postponement of work on the Trans-Alaska Pipeline is also contributing to the scarcity of petroleum products.

In addition, the government's price freeze discourages new drilling and development, particularly in view of the uncontrolled price increase which foreign oil exporters pass on to American companies.

Skyrocketing demand for gasoline is the other half of the shortage dilemna. The more than 100 million vehicles on the road today represent the highest total ever, and it's rising every day. People are driving faster than ever, too, and this directly contributes to the fuel shortage. In addition, mileage is cut by the required smog devices, so we need more gas for the same amount of travel. They tell us there are things we can do individually to fight the gasoline shortages; lowering speed from 70 to 50 miles per hour will save 15% of your gas. Avoiding fast starts and stops will also conserve fuel. Additionally, curtailing the use of air conditioning will significantly save gas. This isn't any problem in Monterey, but it's very hard to curtail the use of air conditioners here in Sacramento when it hits 100 to 110 degrees quite consistently.

The forces generating the gasoline shortage are powerful but careful driving habits can prevent this statewide problem from becomding a personal energy crisis.

Library Sight Questioned

being located near City Hall, Councilman Ross stated:

"Their reasoning was based on the fact that the city owned the property, and that the city would not have to acquire new property for this site.

"They failed to realize that children would have to cross a major thoroughfare (Fremont Avenue) on bicycles to get to the library, or their parents would have to take them by car. This poses a problem for all concerned.

"It seems pragmatic to me that the city could exchange land and locate the library where it would do the most good for the majority of the citizens," he said.

Mrs. Nancy McClintock, a teacher in the public school system, stated "Our argument was that we needed a place where people could get to that wouldn't have to depend on public transportation.

"For the sake of school kids, it should be centrally located, and the central location of Seaside is Noche Buena and Broadway. Anywhere in that general area would be a good location.

"The closer it is to the center of kids, the more kids will use it. We had picked three alternative sites for the City Hall site. One of these was the site on Terrace and Broadway, where, I understand the Post Office is supposed to go in. Right across the street from that, Homer Spahn has a large lot, and as long as they are going to have the Post Office there they are going to have to have a parking lot for the Post Office. This lot could also serve the library.

"There was some talk when we were tearing up the houses where they have a large used car lot now, but that was where the City Hall should have gone.

Echo, and that's a pretty central location. If they had put all the Civic Center there that would have been a nice centrally located complex. There would have been room for a library, clinic, Post Office, etc. Instead they decided to go with the car businesses and put the city hall where they did, which is tragic.

"A third area that we talked about was up in the area of King Junior High School. There is some open speace there. This was our third choice," she said.

Cecil Bindell, President of the NAACP, stated:

"We feel that the location of the library should be East of Fremont for the convenience of the elderly people and the kids."

Mayor States City's View

prepared by the 15th of August to pick up the grant application form and then within a week it has to be turned in complete, replete with all the data, all the back-up information required, to support this. I'm talking about how many jobs are going to be created, how many people are going to use it, the actual amount of funds the city will be obligated for its completion and that the bids would have to be announced by the first of November, with a close, or cut-off date no later than the 20th of November with actual construction to commence before the end of this year.

"There is no way, in my opinion, that we could change horses now at this late date in the game to try and find another location. This would include a land swap if that were feasible. I know of no location in the city right now that would be satisfactory for a library site.

"There is another factor, last March, I'm talking about March of '72, I conducted a survey of my own within the city. My survey showed that an overwhelming majority indicated a desire for a library, the location was desirable in the center part of the city, however, if it meant that we could have a library any place and that we could get that library going, then the location wouldn't be too important a factor, because librarians who were contacted, both in Monterey and the county, indicated some 94 to 96% of the patrons who go to libraries go by vehicles, so regardless where you place that library people are going to go by vehicles, whether it's by the old city hall, new city hall or east of Fremont so those are the factors that I think are important to consider.

"Again, I will repeat, it does not matter to me where the library goes so long as we get the library for our people," he said.

In response to the question as to why the 15th of August was of importance, Mayor Dolan responded:

"We have to be ready by the 15th of August when we are notified. It could be later than the 15th of August, but Mr. Hugh Taylor, (EDA Director) was here, he advised us very strongly and recommended that we do be prepared to commence our application on the 15th of August, if he notifies us, and within seven days thereafter it must be in.

"You see, we are competing with every one else, every municipality in California for these same funds, and he's talking about $300,000 which we urgently need and there is nothing I want to do that will cause us to lose that grant."

that practice racial discrimination; nor can it allow figts to such schools to be treated as charitable deductions for income tax purposes. This IRS position is applicable to all private schools throughout the United States.

All of these schools have publicized their racially non-discriminatory policy in a local newspaper. When a school has publicly announced a racially non-discriminatory policy, the IRS will assume that such a policy has been adopted and will be maintained in good faith for purposes of issuing a ruling, according to Mr. Coleman. This is in accord with the normal IRS procedure of processing requests for rulings based on future activities.

Mr. Coleman stressed that the IRS maintains a vigorous program of auditing tax exempt organizations. Examinations of private schools will take into account any public complaints or information which would indicate non-compliance with assurances made by the schools to the IRS. If an examination indicates that a school has not administered its nondiscriminatory policy in good faith, the tax exempt status of the school will be challenged.

Should an existing ruling to a private school be revoked as a result of a challenge, Mr. Coleman said that persons contributing to the school will be allowed to deduct contributions made before the date of the IRS notice of withdrawal of advance assurance of deductibility. However, this assurance of deductibility of prior contributions does not extend to persons who know of the activities that result in disqualification of the organization. This follows the usual IRS rules and procedures on contributions.

Ramp Installed

Persons with a temporary or permanent physical handicap, necessitating the use of a wheelchair or crutches, will now be able to attend events held at the Pacific Grove Junior High School auditorium, thanks to the joint effort of the Community Centered High School and the Altrusa Club of the Monterey Peninsula.

A ramp, designed and constructed by students at the Community School, under the direction of Dennis Lindberg, teacher, with funds provided by the Altrusa Club, has just been completed and is ready for use. It is portable, takes a minimum of storage space, and is easily assembled. Cost of materials was one hundred and thirth dollars.

is certainly not hindered. But, we must recognize the fact that many persons travel from their states and the jurisdiction of their state courts, leaving behind broken homes and dependent children. Once a person has left the jurisdiction of his home court, he has a practical sanctuary from the enforcement authority of that court," Anderson explained.

"If a person left his home state to get a job, my proposal would not hinder him as long as he met his legal obligations to his family. However, if he leaves the state, gets a job earning a decent living, but still refuses to meet his obligations, then the court could fine him the amount owed his family or place him in jail," he explained.

In San Diego County, over 21,000 families with 46,000 children, receive monthly welfare checks totaling $3.9 million. In San Francisco, almost 20,000 families collect welfare payments of approximately $4 million per month.

Firemen Take Care Course

An Emergency Medical Technician Course consisting of 81 hours of emergency care of the sick and injured, of which 15 hours were spend as observers in the Emergency Receiving Ward, was recently conducted at the Carmel Community Hospital. This course was developed to give the students skill in emergency treatment procedures short of those rendered by physicians or by paramedical personnel under the direct supervision of a phusician.

"Your study marks the vanguard of the future for voluntarism," Balzano told the group. "The days of fighting poverty with massive federal funding and intervention are over. If anti-poverty programs are to survive in the 70's it will be on a local level, with local control, through revenue sharing."

Balzano stressed the face that workable proposals are necessary in order to obtain congressional funding for ACTION. "We have to come up with effective and realistic programs which will involve all segments of the community," Balzano said. "It is essential not to present proposals as pro-ethnic, pro-black, or pro-Mexican; they must be community programs," he said

Cranston Submits Amendment To Child Abuse Prevention Act

Self-help groups such as California-based "Parents Anonymous" would be eligible for federal aid under the Cranston Amendment to the Child Abuse Prevention Act (S.1191) which recently passed the Senate overwhelmingly.

Members of "Parents Anonymous" which in the past two years has spread from its home base in Redondo Beach to 45 chapters throughout the U.S. and Canada are mothers and fathers who have abused their children or who fear that they might.

Like the more well-known "Alcholoics Anonymous" after which it is patterned, "Parents Anonymous" offers these people a chance to help one another overcome their "illness" without revealing their identities.

The organization first came to the attention of Senator Alan Cranston at a hearing he conducted in Los Angeles in June as chairman of the Special Subcommittee on Human Resources.

Members of the organization testified at the hearing, where it was disclosed that between 60,000 and 100,000 children a year are abused physically or psychologically -- an estimated 20,000 in California alone.

"Child abuse takes a toll of incredible magnitude," Cranston said in a statement prepared for Senate floor delivery. "Many parents spank their children or punish them in one way or another. But those who come to 'Parents Anonymous' for help find themselves seriously hurting their children, consistently and uncontrollably."

"One of the difficultues 'Parents Anonymous' faces," Cranston said, "is inadequate funds to ensure that help is on-call 24-hours a day, that professional counselling is available at meetings, and so forth."

He pointed out that such round-the-clock service is essential to protect children and to help members determine when a case should be brought to the attention of the proper authorities. "Their funding needs are not great by comparison to many organizations," Cranston said, "but they are important."

As a result, Cranston amended the Child Abuse Prevention bill to authorize the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to make grants for "demonstration programs designed to prevent, identify and treat child abuse and neglect."

"Grants would cover such things as training of personnel, creation and maintenance of multi-disciplinary child abuse centers and other innovative projects," Cranston said.

The Cranston amendment makes self-help groups eligible for a share of the $20 million in demonstration grants which the bill authorizes for appropriation in fiscal 1974.

The bill calls for creation of a Presidential commission to investigate the effectiveness of existing child abuse laws and to report its recommendations for improvement within a year's time.

The bill also would create a National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect within the Office of Child Development in HEW. The Center, Cranston said, would enable local communities to share their knowledge on how to prevent child abuse.

MPUSD Appointments

Three new assistant principals have been named in secondary schools in the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District.

At their meeting of July 5, trustees announced the appointment of James Anderson as assistant principal at Seaside High School, Stanley Cook as assistant principal at Los Arboles Junior High School and Wayne Downey as assistant principal at Colton Junior High School.

Anderson, who is a work experience counselor and electronics instructor at Seaside High, will replace Patrick Kennedy, who has accepted a job as principal at Tomales High School in Marin County. Downey has been a work experience counselor at Monterey High School and will replace William Akard, who requested a leave of absence. Cook is coming to Monterey from Tracy, where he has served as vice principal of an elementary school. He replaces Bernard DeCosta, who is being reassigned as assistant principal at Fitch Junior High. The Fitch opening was created when acting assistant principal Ron Breding was granted a leave.

In other personnel action, the board named Olson teacher Mary Thomas as dean of students at King Junior High. Mrs. Thomas replaces Mae Johnson, who was recently named to Seaside High School's second assistant principal's job. Donna Lewis, who coordinated a program for gifted students in Seaside last year, was named district resource teacher for Mentally Gifted Minors.

In addition, the board promoted three administrative directors to the new created level of Director II. Included were David Blair, director of personnel, Mrs. Charlie Knight, director of special projects and James Lang, director of service programs.

YMCA Gets New Director

H. William (Bill) Berg is the new General Director of the Monterey Peninsula YMCA, located at 353 Camino El Estero, Monterey.

Berg, formerly Program Director for the Salinas Communicy YMCA, comes to the Monterey Peninsula with nine years of experience with the organization. He began his career in YMCA work in Fresno, California as Building and Community Program Director there.

Hearing To Discuss Short-Weight Meat Packages

Anyone concerned about the problem of short-weight, prepackaged meat sold in California is invited to attend a public hearing on the subject Tuesday, August 7, at 9:30 a.m. in the auditorium of the Food and Agriculture Building, 1220 N Street, Sacramento.

State Food and Agriculture Director C.B. Christensen said his department is holding the hearing to gather testimony regarding the adoption of regulations that will permit county weights and measures inspectors to continue inspecting prepackaged meats and poultry and remove underweight packages from sale.

The problem, Christensen explained, is mostly with products that are packaged and weight labeled in one place--often out of state--and then shipped to the markets for selling. Just in bacon alone, more than one-third of the packages are showing up short weight.

"Normally we would handle this problem by taking statistical samplings of wholesale and retail lots of these products, ordering an entire lot off sale if short weight packages showed up," Christensen pointed out. "However, the Rath Packing Company, which does considerable business in California, obtained a federal court injunction preventing us from doing this."

"They argued that our regulations, which require the weight of such products to be accurate at time of sale, are stricter than federal regulation, which presently require only that the weight of the packaged meats be accurate at time of packing," Christensen said. "And, since the court ruled that federal regulations supersede, we cannot use the statistical campling method of testing until federal regulation change."

Get More For Your Gas

The apparent "energy crisis" faced this summer makes us all interested in stretching the dollars we spend on gasoline.

The summer issue of Small World, the Volkswagen owners' publication, offers "12 Secrets for Better Gas Mileage," which Volkswagen of America, Inc., kindly agreed to share with post readers.

Here are some VW tips for relief of "gas pains:"

* AVOID SHOW-OFF STARTS. The temptation to shoot away from stoplights may be great, but jack-rabbit starts cut mileage drastically. Accelerate smoothly -- and save a buck.

* DON'T PUMP THE GAS PEDAL. Some drivers treat their cars like pump organs. They step on the gas pedal then let off, step on again, then off -- even on the open highway. But jerky or uneven driving wastes gas. Keep a steady foot on the pedal.

* DRIVE AHEAD OF YOURSELF. Anticipate unusual or hazardous road conditions ahead and avoid them early with smooth maneuvers. Don't put yourself in the position where you have to change speed or direction suddenly. That costs you unnecessary gas money and it's unsafe, too. In the city, anticipate half a block ahead. On the open highway, make it a quarter of a mile.

* ANTICIPATE STOPLIGHTS. If you can see stoplights far enough ahead, try to gauge when they'll turn red or green. If you feel a red light is close to turning green, slow down only enough to arrive at the intersection as the light changes. Keep the car rolling; it takes extra gasoline to regain speed.

* AVOID PANIC STOPS. Every time you use the brakes, you turn the energy of the car's motion into heat, throwing it away. It took gasoline to obtain the original energy of motion; it'll take more to regain it. Drive ahead of yourself and there's less chance you'll ever have to "panic stop."

* PASS OTHER CARS SMOOTHLY. Instead of accelerating like a race driver to get around a slower car, sit back and watch for a long, clear section of road. Then, gently and smoothly increase your speed and pass with plenty of room and speed.

* SHIFT WHEN COMFORTABLE. Don't stay in a gear until the engine is screaming, and don't shift down when doing so would make the engine struggle to keep up. You're using fuel most efficiently when the car feels "comfortable" in each gear.

* DON'T SPEED. Unnecessarily fast driving gobbles gasoline. Gas consumption is about 10 percent higher at 60 mph than at 50 mph. At higher speeds you use even more fuel.

* DON'T DRIVE FLAT OUT. In high-speed highway driving, it's possible to use extra fuel without gaining any advantage in speed. Reach the speed you want, then slowly back off the gas pedal. Often the speed will stay where you want it--with less pressure on the pedal.

* DON'T IDLE NEEDLESSLY. If you're waiting to pick someone up, turn off the engine. It'll cost you a lot less in gasoline to start up again later.

* CHECK TIRE PRESSURES. Soft tires cut gas mileage, so keep pressures at recommended figures. On most VW models, proper pressures are found on a label inside the glove-compartment.

* KEEP SERVICED. An out-of-tune engine, particularly on newer cars with more sophisticated emission-control devices, can shoot down gas mileage. So can improper toe-in, an unaligned front end and dozens of other mechanical problems. Take your car to an authorized dealer for regular maintenance.

Oil And Gas Decline Is Continuing

The annual decline in California oil and gas production that began in 1968, continued again in 1972, according to the latest figures released by the State Division of Oil and Gas in its annual report.

State Oil and Gas Supervisor John F. Mathews Jr. said the figures show a drop of one percent in oil production compared to figures recorded for the previous year. The oil and gas production decline began in 1969, when an offshore drilling moratorium was imposed by the State Lands Commission. The year 1968 was the state's peak production year. Since then, annual oil production has declined 13 percent and gas production 24 percent.

About 89 percent of California's total energy needs are now provided by oil and gas. If oil and gas is to supply this percentage of future California energy requirements, new oil reserves will have to be found, or we'll have to rely on uncertain foreign imports.

Governor Ronald Reagan, in a preface statement in the annual report, commends California oil and gas producers who, the governor said, "have responded commendably to the State Division of Oil and Gas environmental enhancement program." The division's program of oil field cleanup is beginning its third year after the enabling legislation became effective in late 1970. "Much has been accomplished but much remains to be done," Supervisor Matthews said.

Unemployment Insurance Helps Many

A billion-dollar fund contributed by California's employers is currently pumping $50 million monthly into the state's economy through payments to workers who are temporarily unemployed.

This was noted by Health and Welfare Secretary Earl Brian in review of the May figures of the state's unemployment insurance program.

Brian said HRD paid out $51,034,000 in weekly benefit payments during May to some 223,000 unemployed workers. Benefits vary, he said, but the average payment is about $60 weekly.

"And this money -- which will total about $640 million in 1973 -- is helping everyone, not just the unemployed," Brian explained. "It's going back into circulation to pay for food, rent and other necessities for the unemployed worker and his family and, at the same time, it's helping to maintain a healthy economy."

"Without this money provided by the employers, the financial burden of relief payments to the unemployed would untimately mean higher taxes for everyone."

Brian said that many workers are under the wrong impression that they contribute to the unemployment fund.

"This is not so. It's financed 100 percent by employers in the form of a payroll tax on the first $4,200 in wages paid to employees. During 1973, HRD will collect about $785 million for this purpose from California employers," he said.

HRD's field offices throughout the state process the unemployment insurance claims, determine eligibility, make payments (usually biweekly) and provide job information and work-search help to the unemployed.

No worker qualifies automatically for UI benefits, Brian noted.

"The program, like all other social insurance or income maintenance programs, requires some minimum earnings and length of service before a worker is eligible. Also, to maintain eligibility, a claimant must be available for work, continue to look for work while being paid the benefits, and accept any job offer within his experience," he said.

Since the program was started in 1936, employers in California have contributed more than $10 billion to the fund, he said. During the same period, approximately $9.4 billion has been disbursed in benefit payments.

Bicycle Deaths On Rise

California bicycle fatalities doubled in the second quarter of 1973, bringing swift response from Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski.

Pudinski ordered an "immediate increase in bicycle enforcement to reverse the trend which saw bike deaths jump from 20 in the first quarter to 40 in April-May-June.

"We've had the pressure on since our bicycle program began late last year, but the spring months brought out cyclists by the thousands and the impact is reflected in more fatal accidents."

On a year-to-year basis, 1973 first-quarter fatalities actually dropped 20 percent, but second quarter deaths increased 48 percent over last year.

"Summer months have a grisly potential--bike use hits a peak then. We will maintain maximum emphasis to keep that potential from being realized," the commissioner said.

The Patrol's bicycle program incorporates a strong educational weapon--a letter to parents of bike violators 14 and under. "We don't cite these youngsters--we want the parents to know what's going on, so we alert them."

The 15-17 age group "usually gets a warning, but may be subject to citation in many instances. Riders 18 and over are subject to the full range of enforcement actions.

Pudinski said the only "bright spot" is a reduction in bicycle injuries.

You don't have to read it all, but it's nice to know it's all there.

Solving the energy problem will be expensive. For you as well as for us.

More costly fuel supplies, construction schedule delays, high interest rates, inflation and the increasing costs of protecting the environment all add up to higher utility rates.

At PG&E we're doing everything we can to provide you with reliable gas and electric service and to keep rates as low as possible. But rates are higher today and they'll continue to increase.

Here's a closer look at the reasons why:

Higher fuel costs.

Natural gas from Alaska and other distant points will be far more expensive.

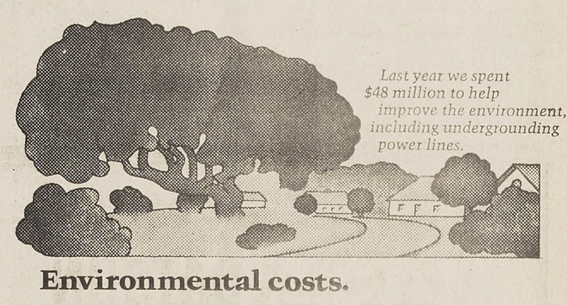
The search for new gas supplies, including exploration in Canada and the Alaskan north slope, is expensive. Such gas will cost more and bringing it from greater distances will add to its price. Alternatives such as synthetic gas, gas made from coal, and importing liquefied natural gas could cost even more.

Besides natural gas, only low-sulfur oil is acceptable as fuel in steam-electric power plants under present air pollution control standards. And we have to pay high premium prices for low-sulfur oil.

(When the costs of oil and natural gas go up, so must electric rates, because most of our steam-electric power plants are fueled by gas or oil.)

Construction schedule delays.

Regulatory procedures, involving 30 or more public agencies, are taking longer and longer. And new laws have established more complicated procedures for plant siting and construction. All these slow down construction schedules, and inflation alone is adding substantially to costs during these periods of delay.

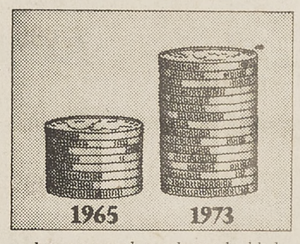


Last year we spent $48 million to help improve the environment, including undergrounding power lines.

Environmental costs.

It costs more to put power lines underground, to build and landscape esthetically pleasing plants, to minimize stack emissions and to cool the water discharged from power plants. During the period 1973-76, PG&E's environmental expenditures will exceed $300 million.

Higher interest rates.



Interest rates have almost doubled during the last ten years.

Utilities are "capital intensive" industries. That means money to build new facilities must be raised—in vast sums. Our construction program this year will exceed $600 million. And interest rates have risen from about 4½% in 1965 to about 7½% today, which adds more millions to the cost of gas and electric service.

All these things, plus the inflationary pressures which affect every business, add up to higher costs for us and higher rates for our customers.

The era of plentiful energy at bargain rates is ending. Our job is to hold down costs wherever possible, without sacrificing the environment or the quality and reliability of your service. We're working hard to meet that challenge.

You can help—by not wasting gas and electricity and by understanding the reasons why your utility bill is going up. Like almost everything else.

Lisa Moore Graduates

Mrs. Lisa Moore, 1531 Costa Street, Seaside, has graduated from San Jose State University. Mrs. Moore is the daughter of Virgil London and was an honor student throughout her educational career. She was recipient of a scholarship from Frankfort High School in Germany, attended MPC and was awarded another scholarship to San Jose State.

Lisa was initiated into the Ladies' Educational Society and is presently its vice-president. She is also listed in "Who's Who In American Colleges And Universities."

Her husband Bill is also a graduate of San Jose State.

New Old Age Security Regulations Announced

The burden of support for aged parents by their adult children was eased in hardship cases when State Welfare Director David B. Swoap filled a new set of Old Age Security regulations with the secretary of state.

In addition to expanding the list of unusual expenses that can be deducted in arriving at the net figure on which support payments are based, the new regulations make other changes aimed at a more equitable administration of the responsible relative law by the counties.

"The regulations are the first step in smoothing the inequities out of the present program while retaining the concept of relative responsibility," Swoap said.

"Legislative action will be needed to simplify matters further by limiting the responsible child's liability to no more than the parent's OAS grant divided by the number of children in the family."

Under the old regulations, liability for support could be reduced under a hardship finding if the adult child had court ordered payment obligations, where failure to pay would result in his going to jail, institutional care payments for members of his immediate family, or medical or dental expenses not covered by insurance to the extend these exceeded three percent of his gross income.

The new regulations allow all medical expenses, including health insurance premiums, funeral expenses for family members, educational expenses, casualty losses not covered by insurance, and medical and household expenses made by a responsible relative to a parent not receiving OAS to be considered in determining hardship, in addition to the expenses previously considered.

One sore point in administration of the responsible relative law was that the adult child's liability began when he was first contacted by his coouty welfare department on the question of whether any liability existed.

In many cases this meant that when the amount of the liability was finally determined, the adult child received from the county a bill for several months' support to be paid against his aged parent's OAS grant.

Under the new regulations, the adult child's liability begans with his first billing from the county for one month's support.

The regulations still provide that where there are several children and their combined liability exceeds the amount of the OAS grant, that each adult child's liability shall be reduced proportionately.

But they now provide that in these cases where a responsible relative's liability is reduced, it cannot be increased to make up for brothers or sisters who do not pay their share.

Asks Halt To Job Bias

Philadelphia (NBNS)--United States Steel Corporation and the United Steelworkers of America have been accused of discriminating against Blacks at the company's Fairless Hills, Pennsylvania, plant.

The suit charged the firms with discrimination in hiring, promotions and job assignments at the plant and asks the court to stop these practices.

USDA Revises Milk Program For Children

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has revised its regulations for the Special Milk Program for Children.

One change makes this Program available only to schools which provide no food service to attending children. Milk is served as a basic component in all meals which are served in schools which do have lunch and breakfast programs.

Another change sets a uniform rate of reimbursement for all participating schools. The maxium rate of reimbursement is 3 cents a half pint, and schools must use these payments to reduce the price of milk to children.

These changes are designed to adjust program expenditures to the level of $25 million that is provided by P.L. 93-52 -- the Continuing Resolution under which the program is operating in the fiscal year 1974.

The changes take effect immediately, and complete details were published in the Federal Register on July 3.
